How well do you know me?

Four pages: host guide / 24 questions / private creator key / friend guess sheet

01 Set up

Bring pens. Print one question list and creator key per round, plus one guess sheet per friend. Start with questions 1-6 or use all 24.

02 Agree on the set

Agree on the same numbers before guessing. Cross out unused prompts. Anyone may request a skip; remove that question for everyone. Do not compare different sets.

03 Keep the key private

The creator circles A or B for their current preferences and folds the key. Keep it fixed. Friends independently guess the creator's choices, not their own favorites.

04 Collect, then reveal

Collect every sheet before revealing. A match earns one point; a miss or blank earns zero. Use the same included total for everyone. Ties share a place. Rotate the creator for a fresh round.

Worked scoring example

Use questions 1-4: key A, B, A, B; guesses A, A, B, B. Questions 1 and 4 match: 2/4 = 50%. Another two-point score ties. If question 3 is removed before play, everyone uses a total of three.

Read this to players

“Guess what this friend would pick. We can skip anything uncomfortable. Your score counts guesses in this round, not the value of a friendship.” After revealing, ask: Which answer surprised you?

Offline you choose the set. Online rounds start at 30 balanced questions with immediate reveals. Use the footer URL to make an online quiz.

24 original this-or-that questions

For each question, guess what the creator would choose. Numbers match pages 3 and 4. Share this list.
